DIVERS HUNT LIFE ON SUB

'Navy Bell' Going Back For 26 Bodies Aboard

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 25—In the faint navy-expressed hope that some of the 26 men still unaccounted for may yet be alive, divers descended again today to the sunken submarine Squalus.

And as they groped in the eerie, murky glow of undersea lights, 240 feet down on the ocean bottom, Rear-Admiral C. W. Cole, navy yard commander in charge of rescue operations, made a strange statement.

"I have my own ideas on what caused the submarine Squalus to sink," he said, "but I would rather not say, pending an official inquiry."

The admiral, haggard through loss of sleep since beginning of rescue operations at dawn yesterday, was grim as he referred to the cause of the disaster, attributed unofficially to a ventilating valve left open.

STILL FAINT HOPE OF LIFE

But there is still hope, even if only a despairing hope, the admiral said, that some of the 26 men still in the submarine may be living.

"We never say die until all hope is lost," he declared.

A short time before that, Admiral Cole had radioed the Navy Yard here:

"Repair of the rescue chamber has been completed. Will resume rescue operations on the after part of Squalus immediately."

The downhaul cable on which the rescue bell operates and which had to be cut last night when the chamber fouled 150 feet below the surface while bringing up the last of 33 survivors, was replaced today and shifted to the after part of the sunken craft.

SEARCH EVERY INCH

When the divers again went into the sea today, instructions were given them to search every inch of the stricken $4,000,000 submarine which sank at about 8:40 a. m. Tuesday with 56 navy men and three civilians aboard.

Dead or alive those remaining in the sunken craft will be brought out before the submarine itself is raised, it was said.

As the divers worked on the new task, Lieutenant Oliver F. Naquin, commander of the tragedy submarine, and seven other of the survivors who had been under treatment aboard the rescue ship Falcon all night were moved to the navy yard hospital here.

They came ashore on the coast guard patrol boat Harriet Lane and all appeared to be in fair condition.

WIVES GREET SURVIVORS

Naquin, a strapping man of 34, with thinning black hair, showed evidence of the strain he had been under. He appeared fatigued but he posed briefly for pictures.

When he came ashore his wife, Mrs. Frances Naquin, hastened to him and kissed him.

Mrs. Virginia Doyle, wife of Lieut. William T. Doyle Jr., of Baltimore, also kissed her husband.

Naquin did not leave the Harriet Lane until he saw to that Charles S. Kuney of Tujare, Cal., yoeman, suffering from effects of cold, was safely carried off the boat on a stretcher and placed in a waiting ambulance.

Naquin wore a pea jacket and khaki trousers and he carried a blanket.

A cordon of marines kept back newspaper men and photographers as the men came ashore. Reporters were not allowed to talk to the commander of the Squalus at this stage.

LAST SURVIVORS UP

Others who came off the Harriett Lane with Lieutenant Naquin, Lieutenant Doyle and Kuney, were:

Allen Carlisle Bryson, machinist mate, second class, Greenville, S. C.

Eugene Donald Cravens, gunner's mate, first class, Thayer, Mo.

Carol N. Pierce, machinist

SUB OFFICER'S OWN STORY OF TRAGEDY BENEATH SEA

By LIEUT. JOHN C. NICHOLS

(First Officer to Reach Surface From the Squalus)

We left the naval base at 6:30 a. m.dives. At 7:40 a. m. we received our O. K. Tuesday. We had orders to practice fast to go down. One minute later the order to submerge was given by Lieut. O. F. Naquin, the commander.

Everything seemed to be in order. The ship dropped down perfectly. She leveled off at 50 feet.

A few minutes later we in the forward compartments had the first word that anything was wrong. The control room was informed the after-engine room was flooded.

The Squalus began to handle heavily. An order was given to blow the tanks and ascend to the surface. The motors were stepped up to full speed.

The crew worked fast, but the

LIEUT. NAQUIN

Lieut. Naquin Lauds Sub Crew '100 Pct.' In Own Tragic Story

By LIEUT. OLIVER F. NAQUIN

Commander, Sunken Submarine Squalus

As Told to Austen Lake, Boston Evening American Staff Writer

I was in the control room at the time of the dive. The accounts are too technical to attempt to discuss until the ship is raised, and I do not intend to attempt to discuss them. My officers and men performed one hundred per cent. There was never any doubt in my mind at all that we would come up, especially after we heard the Sculpin and Falcon overhead.

I released my one available marker buoy which communicated with the forward torpedo room.

Lieutenant Nichols was able to get off the full story of our condition by telephone to the Sculpin.

I later went to the torpedo room and exchanged greetings with Captain Wilkins of the Sculpin and then the buoy line parted.

VICTIMS DROWNED AT ONCE

The lives of the men in the after compartment in my opinion were snuffed out immediately by the quantity of incoming water.

I knew at once, from the angle we took, that the after compartments were probably completely flooded.

We first took water after diving and leveling off at fifty feet. We blew all the available ballast tanks at once and the bow took an up angle of about thirty degrees and then we dropped to the bottom and settled at an angle of about eleven degrees.

Fortunately, the ship was on level keel. Somebody barely mentioned the men in the after compartment and I immediately let it be known that there must be no further discussion of them.

There was nothing we could do for them, and it would have demoralized the men to dwell on their fate.

LUNGS HELD LAST RESORT

We rationed our Monsen lungs, which is the last emergency escape device, but I did not propose to use them except as a final and extreme measure.

Mr. Preble, a civilian observer in the control room with me, had no experience with the use of the lung, and I personally gave him instructions.

I think it served to distract the men's minds from their predicament.

Except for the carbon dioxide which we created by our own breathing, there was no lethal gas in the control room at any time. We, of course, began the use of oxygen from our containers at once.

Because of the icy condition of the water we decided to use the lungs only as a last resort.

LAUDS MAN WHO SHUT DOOR

If there had been any leak in the ship or any reason for me to doubt our ultimate safety, I would, of course, have shot the men to the surface through the escape hatch.

Lloyd E. Maness, an electrician's mate, is the man to whom I owe my life, as do also all of the other men who were forward from the control bulkhead. Maness acted speedily and instinctively and closed the doors shutting off the after compartments.

It was a job that required superhuman strength because of our up angle and the outward swing of the door.

MAN WHO SHUT SUB DOOR ON DEATH TELLS HIS STORY

By FLOYD MANESS

Electrician 3d class. Submarine hero who closed the bulkhead door to save 33 lives. As told to Austen Lake of the Boston Evening American staff.

I was detailed in charge of the bulkhead door which divides the control room and the aft batteries. The Squalus settled to the bottom. We were resting at a sharp angle and down aft.

The water was rising rapidly in the after compartments and I suddenly realized that time was short if I was to close the bulkhead door.

Due to the angle of the ship and the fact that the door opens from a down angle, I had to exert all of my strength to swing it into place.

It was when I partly closed the door I heard several men should to me from the flooded after battery.

The yelled "Keep it open! Keep it open!"

I let the door slip back on its hinges and my shipmates, O'Hara, Blanchard, Isaac, Bolton and Washburn passed through.

REQUIRED NO ORDERS

As soon as they were safely in my compartment I swung the door shut.

And it required every ounce of strength I had to put into it, and then I finally managed to turn down the water-tight screws. There was no order issued to close the door inasmuch as it is considered the bulkhead guards initiative.

Ruth Desautel

I realized, of course, that there were men trapped in the aft compartment, but in an emergency of this kind every bulkhead door in all sections of the ship are fastened as a measure of safety. Even those doors forward in the dry section had been closed.

An induction valve, overhead in the control room, was taking in water, and I immediately closed that so the room was sealed tight.

"WITHOUT SENTIMENT"

I knew of only one man that was shut in the water-filled control room and that was John J. Battick.

I had talked with him just a moment before we took the dive. At such times as this there is no time for sentiment.

We are trained rigidly to act, so I gave no consideration of the fate of my shipmates any more than I would have expected similar consideration had I been in their place.

It was not until after we had gathered in the foreward compartment that I began to realize the awfulness of my shipmates' situation in the after section.

Particularly, I thought of Sherman Shirley, my dear friend and chum, whose best man I was to be next Sunday when he was to marry the Dover, N. H., girl by the name of Desautels.

In fact, I had talked with him about Sunday, as we were sailing out of the navy yard for the test grounds. I have forgotten now what we said, but it was to do with Sunday's wedding.

So when I had time to think I hoped that Shirley was fortunate enough to be in a dry section, though hope of his being there was remote. I mentioned nothing of my thoughts to other shipmates, but I do remember hearing Commander Naquin ordering no mention of the men in the flooded section.

COMMUNICATION CUT

I guess he realized that such talk would be demoralizing and that nothing could be done for them anyhow.

Our communcations were cut off with the after section because of the electricity having gone out as

RAIN HITS DROUTH AREA AS ROYAL PAIR ARRIVES

REGINA, May 25 (Canadian Press)—Farm folk by the thousands—many of them from the 1938 drouth lands of the province—crowded into Saskatchewan's capital today to see the King and Queen.

They were a cheerful horde of visitors, happy over Wednesday's heavy rainfall that meant much to their newly seeded wheat, and they were ready to join provincial and civil officials in a great demonstration of welcome to Their Majesties.

The royal train, due for a seven and one-half hour visit at 2:30 p. m. EST, this morning was rolling across the prairies where the King and Queen had a view of the great wheatlands—their day give over to rest except for an occasional platform appearance.

They stopped at Brandon, Manitoba, last night for what their spokesman said was the "most impressive welcome Their Majesties have met."

Nearly 50,000 persons crowded the Brandon platform, although the town population is only 17,000, while the King and Queen mounted a reviewing stand. The cheers were so loud and so affected the Queen that one person thought he detected tears as she boarded the train.

A volunteer guard of honor formed a wall along the platform. It had been rainy and cool in Winnipeg yesterday but Brandon was clear and warm.

The Regina program included a drive to city hall for formal welcome, signing of the city register by the King and Quetn, a tea at royal Canadian mounted police headquarters and a state dinner at government house.

Queen Mary Sends Note to Driver in Crash

LONDON, May 25 (AP)—Queen Mother Mary, recovering from bruises and a minor injury to o. eye, today dispatched a letter of thanks for flowers brought by Albert Cooper, driver of the truck involved in the collision in which she was injured.

The 47-year-old driver took the small bouqu to her residence, Marlborough House, yesterday.

A statement today by the Queen's physician said:

"Her Majesty Queen Mary has had a good night and is more comfortable and Her Majesty's general condition continues to improve."

The Queen mother apparently was not tired by watching a television broadcast of yesterday's derby and listening last night to her son, King George VI, speak from Winnipeg, Canada.

Asks Custody Of Brother's 3 Young Sons

Accusing her own brother of being "unfit" to have custody of his three young sons, Mrs. Lillian Morrill of Webber street, Roxbury, sought today to be named temporary guardian of her nephews.

The father, James F. Dooley, a Boston sanitary inspector with a home in Foxboro, opposed Mrs. Morrill's petition, which was brought in Suffolk probate court.

Dooley's counsel, Attorney Arthur A. Karp, told Judge Frederick J. Dillon that the aunt had turned the boys against their father, during the month they have been living with her.

Two of the sons, James, Jr., 17, and Joseph, 12, were in court as witnesses for the aunt. The third boy, Vincent, seven, was in school.

No testimony was offered in support of the "unfit" charge brought by the aunt against the father.

After a bench conference, Judge Dillon announced he would appoint an investigator to report on the Dooley family situation.

Mrs. Alice Dooley, mother of the boys, died a year ago, the judge was told. Judge Dillon in making his decision said:

"As a rule, I believe the parent entitled to custody of children. But in this case, I want to know more of the facts, before making my decision."

$3,715,907 Tax Jolt for Dwyer

NEW YORK, May 25 (INS)—A judgment of $3,715,907.69 for income taxes and penalties was awarded to the government today against William V. (Big Bill) Dwyer of New York, famous sportsman of the prohibition era and former owner of the Tropical Park racetrack in Florida.

The award was made by Federal Judge Byers in Brooklyn after a ten-minute trial. No defense was offered.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Frank J. Parker said that the government claimed income taxes from 1922 to 1925, 1927 to 1929, 1931, and 1934 to 1936.

The only evidence was a list of bank deposits which the government claimed were made by Dwyer.

Parker, admitting he was without information as to whether Dwyer possesses anything upon which the government could levy said anything upon the possible criminal prosecution of Dwyer would have to come from Washington. Parker stated:

"He is reported to be the owner of several race tracks, but we have no proof of that now."

Whereabouts of Dwyer was not disclosed by his lawyer.

New Haven Wreck Kills 1, Many Hurt

NEWINGTON, Conn., May 25 (AP)—Equipment projecting from the side of a work train raked the side of a passing New Haven Railroad express train here today, killing one passenger and sending 12 others to hospitals.

The pasenger killed was David R. Butters of East Providence, R. I., an employe of the railroad. Three of the injured were reported to be in serious condition and the nine others suffered mainly bruises and lacerations.

Scores of other passengers and trainmen were treated at the scene for minor cuts and continued to New York on a later train.

The express was the Washingtonian, bound for Washington from Montreal and speeding along on a straightway track when it met the work train headed toward Hartford.

Railroad officials said the crane of a ditch-digger mounted on one of the work train cars had swung to one side so that the rear of the digger's cab projected out over the tracks on which the express was traveling.

The cab struck the Washingtonian locomotive, missed the baggage car, virtually ripped the side off a day coach, tore open the front end of a following sleeper and stove in the roof of a second sleeper.

Those whose conditions were listed as serious were Murray Rudman, 20, of Montreal; Herbert Collier of West Hartford, Conn., and Stephen Kinczyk, 48, of Willimantic.

Neither train was derailed and the express went nearly a mile beyond the scene of the accident before it could be halted.

Backus Ouster Decision Near

The State Public Utilities Commission called an executive session for late today to act upon ouster charges brought by Governor Saltonstall against John H. Backus, $6,500-a-year director of the state's division regulating sale of securities.

Francis M. McKeown, commission chairman, announced that its decision would be given either late today or tomorrow morning.

The charges set forth that Backus "falsly impugned" Saltonstall's motives in discussing the chief executive's recommendation for abolition of the division before the legislature's state administration committee. The hearing on the charge occupied several days.

Members of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts met today for the 17th annual meeting and election of officers at the organization's Beacon street, Beacon Hill, clubhouse.

The polls opened at 9.30 a. m., with 7.30 p. m. set for the closing.

Freed Revere Police Ask Reinstatement

While 10 defendants in Revere's alleged gambling conspiracy awaited their fate at the hands of a jury in Suffolk Superior Court today, three leading police officials of the city moved for reinstatement with full pay for time of suspension, after they had been cleared of implication in the case through a directed verdict by Judge Allen G. Buttrick.

They were Chief Edward J. Tighe, Lieutenant Henry Tracy and Inspector William C. Gibson, declared by the court to be "entirely under the domination of former Mayor James M. O'Brien."

Of particular weight in disposing of the remaining 10 conspiracy cases was the action of Judge Buttrick in striking from the court records all testimony recorded in the past 10 days by eight state witnesses.

The witnesses were Louis J. Crotto, a member of the Watch and Ward Society; Captain James P. Mahoney, chief executive officer of the State police; Captain William Tappan of the Revere police department, John M. McCauley of Revere, Sergeant Daniel J. Sullivan of the Revere police department, Captain James P. Sheehan of the Boston police department.

As a result of the court's action, arguments were begun by defense attorneys late in the afternoon and will be continued this morning, with the likelihood that Judge Buttrick will address the jury sometime this afternoon.

CIVIL SERVICE FIGHT TO COURT

MRS. MARY LIVERMORE BARROWS

Several applicants whose non-competitive civil service examination papers were held up by Governor Saltonstall's ousting of Civil Service Chairman Thomas H. Green and his two associates, prepared today to carry their fight for markings on the tests to the courts.

Basing their fight on a ruling made last Saturday by Attorney General Paul A. Dever, they claimed that the governor has no right to hold up the papers. Governor Saltonstall, however, declared that he was blocking what was reported to him as an attempt to rush through markings on 45 examination papers.

Through his civil service re-organization bill, the executive council immediately confirmed appointment of a new board of five created by the measure, and the governor seized and impounded the 45 papers in question.

The new commissioners, four of whom were sworn in at once, are: William H. Bixby (chairman), 49, of Newton; Phil V. Erard, 64, of Springfield; Joseph Joyce Donahue, 53, of Boston; Herbert Ehrmann, 48, of Brookline, and Mrs. Mary Livermore Barrows of Melrose.

N. E. Friends Attend Spellman Reception

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, May 25—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman officially began his duties as head of the New York archdiocese today, following a colorful reception at the Hotel Commodore where he was received by 7500 members of the laity.

After addresses by Hon. Alfred E. Smith, representing the men of the New York diocese, Lady Armstrong, who spoke in behalf of the women, Auxiliary Bishop Stephen J. Donahue and Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, those present at the reception passed in front of a place reserved for the new head of the New York See.

In the long line were hundreds of people from Boston and from other sections of New England.

Former Governor Smith extended a warm greeting to Archbishop Spellman in behalf of the laity, and could not resist telling how Massachusetts, the home of the new ruler of the New York diocese, had stood by him when he was a candidate for the presidency.

Bishop Donahue once more extended the hand of welcome to Archbishop Spellman, promising every co-operation from the clergy and from himself.

Archbishop Spellman, responding, declared to Lady Armstrong's mention of his mother of blessed memory, read an excerpt from a letter he received from one of his sisters at the time he was named Archbishop of New York.

The letter contained the thought that Mrs. Spellman's chief hope was that he would always "be a good priest."

Members of Archbishop Spellman's family were among those attending the reception. They included Dr. and Mrs. Martin H. Spellman, Dr. and Mrs. John Spellman, Mr. and Mrs. George Garrity and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pegnam.

U. S. District Attorney Edmund Brandon and Mrs. Brandon were in a central box. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Malloy of Lynn were in attendance.

A former fire commissioner, Edward McLaughlin, and Mrs. McLaughlin were present, as were Joseph O'Connell, nephew of Cardinal O'Connell, Jack Ryan, Fire Commissioner Arthur Reilly and his wife and Mrs. Frederick Carroll.

Elect Hub Man MCOF Trustee

WORCESTER, May 25 (AP)—David F. Sheehan, Dorchester, was returned the winner in his contest against Joseph A. Cahalan, also of Dorchester, for a three-year term as trustee of Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters in the results of yesterday's balloting announced at the opening of the second day of the annual convention today in Hotel Bancroft.

The vote was 462 for Sheehan and 213 for Cahalan.

In the only other contest Edward I. Buckley, Lynn, defeated Mrs. Helena M. Galvin, Quincy, for the unexpired term as high finance committee member of Miss Annie F. Sullivan, Dorchester, who died last February.

William J. McCrystal, Medford, was unopposed for high chief ranger. He succeeds Ralph J. Wheeler, Leicester.

Haffenreffer Gives Estate to Dartmouth

Once the scene of an episode in one of the most fantastic comedies resulting from the so-called "gangster era" of recent years, the 900-acre Canaan, N. H., summer estate of Theodore C. Haffenreffer, millionaire Jamaica Plain brewer, was in possession today of Dartmouth College, a free gift, to have and to hold forever.

The estate, which has a 28-room mansion, had been owned by the Haffenreffer family for the last 45 years.

It is one of the most beautiful estates in New Hampshire, and was turned over to the college by Haffenreffer, after lengthy conversations with its trustees. What use the college will make of it was not announced.

The comic episode worked itself out in July, 1933, when, for a time, the estate was an armed camp, with police and private guards protecting its owner from threats of kidnaping in a $150,000 extortion plot.

Haffenreffer, along with every other prominent Eastern brewer, received letters from "The Beer Barons' Protective Association."

He turned the letters over to police, and a rendezvous was arranged at the Relay House, Nahant, with the extortioners. Police posed as barbers, bartenders, chauffeurs—even as drunken customers—but the extortioners failed to show up.

'Death Kiss' Widow On Hunger Strike

PHILADELPHIA, May 25 (AP)—An oft-married widow known to police as "Rose of Death" was in a hospital today after what Police Captain James Kelley said was a three-day "hunger-and-thirst" strike in protest against her arrest in the eastern states mass-murder syndicate investigation.

Kelly said the woman, Mrs. Rose Carina, 45, had drunk little and eaten nothing during the three days and that she was ordered removed to a hospital because authorities were concerned over her condition.

Arrested in New York last week after a long search, Mrs. Carina is charged with murder in the poisoning of Pietro Stea, Philadelphia grocer described as her common-law husband. Despite her strike, Kelly said she had been a "willing talker" about some of more than 100 other deaths attributed to the syndicate.

Three other defendants pleaded guilty today and seven pleaded innocent when arraigned together on charges of murder and manslaughter in the deaths of five men.

Those pleading guilty will appear before a court of three judges, who will hear evidence and fix punishment. They are Morris Bolber, who detectives charge was an "executive" of the widespread syndicate, Samuel Sortino, and Rafael Polselli.

David Brandt, Agnes Mandiuk, Mrs. Christina Cerrone, Cesare Valenti, Paul Petrillo, Amedeo Muscelli and Mrs. Josephine Romualdo all pleaded innocent.

JAPS PLAN TO HALT ALL SHIPS

SHANGHAI, May 25 (AP)—A Japanese navy spokesman warned today that foreign ships entering waters in the vicinity of the China coast were liable to be halted and searched by Japanese warships.

Such action as the stopping and boarding of two foreign liners in two days, the British Ranpura and the French Aramis, was "necessitated," he asserted, because in the past ships flying foreign flags had been used by Chinese for military operations against the Japanese.

The British government today announced it had protested strongly to Japanese naval authorities against the halting of the Ranpura yesterday just outside Hongkong waters. A boarding party left the liner as two British destroyers summoned by wireless appeared.

(Today the French liner Aramis was reported halted 17 miles northeast of Hongkong and detained an hour while a boarding party examined the ship's papers despite protests of her officers.)

The American liner President Coolidge now en route from Shanghai to Hongtong will enter the "search zone" tomorrow, but the spokesman declined to say whether it was planned to board her.

The spokesman also declined to say how far from the China coast the search zone extended, but it was indicated it might be up to 100 miles. It also was planned to seize any military goods meant for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government found aboard foreign vessels.

British-Soviet Pact Nears Final Phase

By the Associated Press

The British government was reported reliably today to have opened the final phase of negotiations for a British-French-Russian mutual aid pact by sending Moscow a note containing new proposals.

Renewed progress of the long-stalemated negotiations for bringing Russia into the British-French lineup evoked Nazi accusations that Britain openly had confessed "faith in the encirclement policy" and the charge that she had precluded "further co-operation of the big powers for peaceful solution of existing problems."

The German press also reported "new provocations" by Poles against the Free City of Danzig. "Serious Polish encroachments are increasing," said the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin.

In Warsaw, on the other hand, two newspapers declared a "mysterious transport" has dentered Danzig from East Prussia. They said German trucks crossed the frontier Sunday during a Nazi demonstration at the Walthof customs house, and charged that Nazis had provoked the incident so that there would be no border patrol.

5 ARABS WOUNDED

HAIFA, Palestine, May 25 (AP)—Five Arabs were wounded today when shots were fired into a crowd at Port Easter station. Arabs said Jews did the shooting.

CHANGE BAD FEET TO BETTER FEET—OVERNIGHT

"Oil your feet," ordered Napoleon to his soldiers before a battle or a long march—he was a clever man.

Sore, aching, burnin feet probably cause more misery—more distress—more bad temper and cursing than most other human ailments.

Many a time—overnight—you can take out the sting—the soreness—the burning and aching from your poor distressed feet by giving them a good rubbing with penetrating medicated OMEGA OIL.

Rub them before going to bed and next morning you will probably awake happy—walk more joyfully to work—also, "Oil your feet."

GIRL 'SWEET POTATO' PLAYER ROUTS DOOR KNOCKER

Flora Briggs, who lives in a Commonwealth avenue, Allston, apartment, was playing on the ocarina—a musical instrument known as a "sweet potato"—when she was disturbed by a knock at the door. The knock represented a young man who mumbled something about selling safety pins. Aroused by his suspicious actions, she jabbed the trusty ocarina into his side. Assuming the instrument was a revolver, he marched out of the building. She called police, but they could not locate the suspicious person.

Why We Made It!

IN MODERN, high-speed motors—firing speeds of over 10,000 explosions a minute are common! Carburetion temperatures are 100°F. cooler! Compressions are 50% greater!

A new gasoline was needed...

❶—that would vaporize FAST at LOWER carburetion temperatures.

❷—that would vaporize EVENLY... deliver the right mixture of gasoline and air to every cylinder.

Mobilgas Special does both jobs!

Why It's Different!

YOUR MOTOR answers the starter—the accelerator—instantly! You get new smoothness... new quietness!

For Mobilgas Special's NEW HIGH VOLATILITY helps your carburetor deliver the right mixture of gasoline and air to every cylinder, on time. That means even firing—full power!

Raymond L. S. Patriarca, Rhode Island's so-called "Public Enemy No. 1," and the stormy petrel of Massachusetts' inquiry into an alleged "parole racket" violated his parole and should be returned to prison here according to a formal opinion of Attorney General Paul A. Dever forwarded today to Governor Saltonstall.

Answering five questions propounded by the governor, Attorney-General Dever holds that:

1—Patriarca proceeded illegally from Massachusetts last December 31, when, following his release from state prison after serving a total of 66 days of two three-to-five-year sentences, he went home to Rhode Island.

2—His presence in Rhode Island after that date was illegal.

SHOULD BE RETURNED

3—In that his absence from the state was already illegal, his going to Florida afterwards constitutes no further violation of his parole.

4—Inasmuch as his absence is illegal, his continued presence in Florida is illegal—all based on his failure to obtain written permission from the state parole board to leave Massachusetts in the first place.

5—Because of the above conclusions, he can and should be returned to prison here.

The answers were released by Dever's office because he himself is now in New York. He authorized the release by telephone.

U.S. to Bar Bergdoll, Due to Land Today

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—The Senate military affairs committee has yielded to the pleadings of a wife, a mother and an attorney to postpone formal action on a bill which would require the immediate deportation of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious World War draft dodger, when he lands in New York today aboard the liner Bremen.

The aged mother and the pretty wife of Bergdoll, who has spent the past 17 years in various German exile camps fleeing an American court martial sentence, asked the committee to reject the pending legislation barring his re entry.

Harry Weinberger, the fugitive's attorney, declared Bergdoll was "one of a half million draft dodgers" and deserved leniency. Consideration of the bill, already passed by the House, was postponed until Friday.

But federal officers will await Bergdoll at Ellis Island, nevertheless. Immigration authorities were declared ready to order his exclusion upon arrival.

The War Department, Maj. Gen. A. W. Brown, its chief personnel officer, informed the committee that Bergdoll is required to serve the remainder of a five year draft evasion sentence and if he is set at liberty charge which carried a maximum penalty of 10 years and 10 months.

"God's thought what a sight and there's the sun," exclaimed Ensign Murphy [illegible] down the men who left the when the submarine Squalus foundered.

Climbing into that rescue bell was a thrill but nothing to what we felt when we heard the first faint signals tapping along the top of the ship.

There wasn't much room when we first hit the bottom. I was only of the adult sort, but [illegible] small souls enough although of an [illegible] I'm sure that must have been because water had entered the rear compartments. How we don't know.

It was a long time before we heard the Sculpin overhead, as she located the marker buoy we'd sent up and then the voice of Captain Lewis from above.

When the telephone connection broke and his voice was cut off that was probably our toughest moment. But we didn't lose hope and then when that diver came stomping down—that was the most important moment of any of our lives."

Salem Girl Mourns Pal Lost on Sub

We weren't engaged or anything like that, Dianne said today at her home in Carleton street, here. We were just good friends. Perhaps some day if this hadn't happened—but it's no use dreaming of it now.

He was going to come to see me next time he got a furlough. Last time we were together was about a year ago.

He must have been transferred to the Squalus only recently. I didn't even know he was aboard a sub.

Then I saw his name on the Squalus crew list in the Boston Evening American. I couldn't believe he was dead.

It's cruel . . . cruel. He loved living so.

LONE BUGLE SOUNDS TAPS FOR DEAD---REVEILLE, TOO

By AUSTEN LAKE

NAVY YARD, PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 25—Last evening as the sun settled over Portsmouth's Navy yard the call-to-the colors wailed a thin ribbon of sound. It was dirge and triumph at the same time—a knell for the submarine Squalus' 26 dead, a paean for its 33 living.

As the bugle trailed to a whining close a man, clad in blue hospital pajamas and huddled under a service blanket, sat in the upper hallway of headquarters, telling a pathetic tale with a voice that faltered and a tongue that stumbled.

'INSIDE' STORY OF BELL TOLD

"We brought him up, the admiral said, and went down another diver to disconnect the downhaul, so if worst came to worst we could blow air into the bell for ascent by its own buoyancy.

"After [illegible] we got [illegible] picking beside the serious aspect of the situation. They even told us they wanted beefsteak.

"A third diver became fouled in the line," the admiral said, "and we had to decompress him on the way up, a two-hour job. We couldn't afford to let the bell up while he was down there, as the bell might have struck and killed him.

"Finally we hauled him as far away from the bell as possible. Then we put men on the tap line and told the fellmen to blow [illegible] slowly in an effort to reach negative buoyancy.

REPAIR TIEE BELL

[illegible]

"Repairs on the rescue chamber have been completed," Admiral Cole radioed the navy yard shortly before noon. "Will resume rescue operations on the after part of Squalus immediately."

[illegible]

There was admittedly only a faint hope that any of the men—two of them civilians—are alive. If it develops that the compartments were completely flooded, there is no hope for them.

But there is a possibility that one or two of the compartments were only partly flooded.

Navy divers, in the hopes of the rescue chamber's rescue effort, stood their vigil for a few more hours against the sea's power.

As the first of the men below expert watchers compared reports of the rescue chamber with heartbreaking finality. A new bearing that was reported as a result of a tapping would be the first indication to the rescuers.

Navy officers said divers would enter the sunken craft to locate the bodies. They probably would be brought to the surface in the escape tube.

Where the bodies were and approximately how they would be recovered was a problem to be solved by the men who had been summoned.

WILL PUMP IN AIR

Navy officials [illegible] pumped into the sunken [illegible] ing to the surface. But if any [illegible] escaped to the [illegible] sea, it is believed impossible.

[illegible] ter procedure is [illegible] taking a method which [illegible] results a year to retrieve the S-4 from Provincetown. The big pontoons used [illegible] the morning in lowering the U.S. Sequoia. Divers would first have to [illegible] under the Squalus with compressed air tubes, after, which chains would encircle the ship to draw it to the surface.

RESCUE BELL FOULED

The Navy won its first great undersea triumph early this morning when the last eight of the survivors were taken aboard the Falcon.

Fouled cables on the rescue bell had held the group prisoner for many hours, 150 feet beneath the surface.

Tiny is [illegible] of the sea, Lieut. Nelson was the last to leave the ship. He had no statement to make except to his superiors, as he stepped from the rescue chamber.

His presence set the seal of finality on the fate of the remaining 26 on the submarine. Its depth, [illegible] that all hope for them was gone. Wife [illegible] be carried to [illegible] which will be turned over to [illegible] attendants for their [illegible].

TOTAL OF DEAD REVISED

Preparations for raising the submerged submarine were already underway with divers reporting they had closed the high induction valve to allow attempts at pumping out the flooded compartments.

The valve, located on the conning tower, is for the purpose of letting air into the submarine when it cruises on the surface.

If enough is found when a dive is to be made and the navy's concern after the rescue of the [illegible] and [illegible] of the vessel is to determine where [illegible] material [illegible] was required for the [illegible].

Navy Wives Bravely Face Their Sorrows

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 25—Hoping where there was no hope!

TORTURE OF SUSPENSE

It was bitter to know the worst [illegible] was better to [illegible] the [illegible] suspense.

The suspense endured when [illegible] and the diving bell brought [illegible] to the surface. And the names were read. And the names they women waited to hear were [illegible] among them.

Perhaps [illegible] to collapse [illegible] was [illegible] sweet faced [illegible] Mrs. Helen Waite of Amesbury, Mass.

It was she who would have been a bride tomorrow. But that fatal [illegible] Frank H. Schultz of St. Louis, Mo., was 240 feet below the [illegible] ocean's deceptively smiling surface, trapped in the dark when the water rushed into the stricken Squalus.

HER TEARS ALL SHED

How he died, his sweetheart could not know.

All her tears already shed, Mrs. Sophie Deal, wife of Elvin L. Deal of Copperhill, Tenn., sat still and numb.

There were dark circles under her reddened eyes. Her tight clenched knuckles were white, as she twisted her fingers together to keep them from trembling so.

She and her navy husband were married three months ago. They were going on their honeymoon during his next leave.

But Death brought him his furlough and he had to leave [illegible].

Consoling her, but in need of consolation herself, was another [illegible] wife, Mrs. Miriam Ward of Drumright, Okla.

She clung to the 1000-to-one hope that her husband, Marion I. Ward might somehow still be alive.

On their way here were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Patterson, parents of Ensign Joseph Patterson, only commissioned officer reported lost on the Squalus.

Nazis Praise U. S. Navy for Squalus Rescue

BERLIN, May 25 (AP)—German officials and the Berlin Press gave unstinted praise today to the rescue of 33 members of the crew of the United States submarine Squalus.

"The American navy has accomplished a feat of seamanship which deserves universal acclaim," said the [illegible] Berliner Lokal Anzeiger.

It extended sympathy for the 26 others for whom hope has been abandoned.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said:

"The [illegible] of the [illegible] in these [illegible] days [illegible] admiration for the [illegible] of the United States navy."

Nobody ate much at any time, but the greatest lack was that of fresh water, the available supply [illegible] soon [illegible].

I don't think any of the men had a drink of any kind from the time of diving until we were rescued by the Falcon. The cold was penetrating and we got blankets from the officers' quarters and laid down to conserve oxygen and energy.

The forward bulkhead was soon opened on the order of Commander Naquin, and those of us who had survived were reunited.

I want to make it clear that I acted according to the requirements of my duty in closing the bulkhead door. I have the utmost respect for my shipmates who died, and especially for my dear friend, but I would not hesitate to do the same thing if similar circumstances required.

I want no credit for having carried out something that any other member of my crew would have done had he been at my post.

Freezing temperature in sunken sub Squalus chilled these first seven survivors to the bone. Here they huddle in blankets aboard the Coast Guard cutter Harriet Lane. But they're happy . . . they're alive and heading for wives and homes.

Dazed by his experience, Harold C. Preble, civilian aboard the Squalus, stares ahead in ambulance before transfer to Navy hospital in Portsmouth.

Happiness over rescue of her husband, being placed into ambulance, is transformed into mild worry for Mrs. Lawrence J. Gainor, shown with hand to face, as she wonders if he is all right. Gainor was suffering from effect of cold, will recover.

THE ILL-FATED SUBMARINE SQUALUS
Did Women, Mothers and Sweethearts Foresee Its Doom?

Therefore is therefore ask: "Can the human mind really look into the future? Is it actually possible to predict misfortune, injury and death?"

These questions are not new: from the time the ancient Greeks worshipped Apollo and sought this gods counsel at Delphi, individuals and nations have debated the mystery commonly known as premonition.

Literature gives us many illustrations as every Shakespearean scholar knows. The person destined to experience sorrow is supposed to be forewarned by symbols, such as banshees, coaches, funeral processions, ominous animals and natural sounds. Less frequently, he faces a ghost or ghosts and a premonition is the self-evident thing before it occurs.

Most remarkable of modern prophecies is probably that contained in Theodore B. Morgan's book, "A Reporter at the Papal Court," published in this newspaper.

Mr. Morgan said that when Pope Benedict XV received Cardinal Ratti, a minor high churchman a short time before his death, he remarked: "One of you will be our successor."

Exactly three months later Cardinal Ratti, the relatively obscure [illegible] Pope Pius XI

COSMETICS, like clothes, manners and morals, are matters of geography, climate and fashion. For instance in Turkey their use is a custom, and in China they are a necessity.

OUR OLD MAN [illegible] and he [illegible] and recently [illegible] people of [illegible] if he has [illegible].

He said you take the [illegible] of the United States. He said there would [illegible] sets of people in this country, and head the social [illegible] above the rest of ordinary folks, pretending to be [illegible] friendly, sociable and obliging, but they [illegible] themselves these sets would [illegible] long ago and completely disappeared.

He said that people and their [illegible] would have wiped them out along with the [illegible] and the snobbery that goes with them, but that what always happened was that most of the people who claim to any special background or breeding [illegible] themselves one way and another, [illegible] and refused not only new blood but new [illegible].

Our old man said they [illegible] got in through new money. He said he could not know of anything more snobbish than new money. He said it was ten times more snobbish than old money and more insistent on social distinctions. He said if you looked around any community in the United States you would find that most of the biggest snobs had the least claim to family tradition, or to good manners, but the newest money.

OUR OLD MAN said to [illegible] not care much about that family tradition business, but that he could not deny that it counted for something in many communities. He said he had gone to the trouble of looking up a lot of American family trees, and had found that many of them sprang from shady roots, and it was his opinion that no less the average American engaged in [illegible] philosophy. The fewer skeletons [illegible] family closet, [illegible] on him.

However, he said he had [illegible] and manners meant a lot, and he said [illegible] always made the business of entertaining [illegible] and strangers. He said that in a reportorial capacity he had occasionally met and talked with persons associated by right of family members of high social circles [illegible] in the United States but in foreign countries, and that he personally found them reasonably considerate and people of not exactly of great stature intellectually.

He said he had also met and talked with both men and women who had achieved these circles by accident, and who had none of the training for them that was the family heritage of the others, and that almost invariably he had found them the most kind of snobs.

OUR OLD MAN said that kind were mighty strict about preserving the social distinctions which those of the manner born as you might say were inclined to disregard. He said the chummiest fellow he had ever met was an English bloke who had a title that went back centuries and all kinds of money and that the worst snob in his experience was a former hobo who had suddenly come into a huge fortune and got into society.

Our old man said he would not have minded the ex-hobo being so snobbish but for the fact that he had known the chap when he was as nice a fellow as you would want to meet. Our old man said he did not mind a born snob being snobbish but he did object to these self-made snobs. He said the born snob probably never knew he was being any different.

Our old man used to like to tell the story of a call he once made in our old home town of Pueblo on a rich banker, who was considered a somewhat unapproachable person. A most austere butler did not tend to set him at ease. The banker gave him a cigar, a drink as I wanted him to stay for dinner. Outside again, our old man waited ten minutes and then rang the bell, he thumbed his nose at the butler, and said that for you, you snob. The butler was surprised.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Is the Average Life Worth Living?

By Elsie Robinson

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING? Suppose you're poor, sick, discouraged, can't see a chance ahead: is there any use in fighting on? Is there any tangible thing in a common man's life that makes the struggle worth while?

Yes, there is! THE MAN HIMSELF.

Mind you, I don't think that's the only reason. Personally, I believe there's a plan behind this life, a future ahead of it, and a God running the whole show. And I think we're all going to get bigger and better breaks when we qualify.

But scratch all that if you wish—I STILL BELIEVE THAT WE OURSELVES ARE WORTH THE SCRAP IT TAKES TO KEEP US GOING.

Doesn't matter who you are or what you've done . . . what you believe or don't believe. In you yourself, just as you stand, there's enough to make life worth the living, enough of a Plan to justify respect, enough of a God to justify love, enough of a Heaven to justify faith . . . enough of all that's true and brave and beautiful to justify a whale of a scrap to keep it going.

IN DARK DAYS, when I hated everyone, everything, I used to turn to certain words in an old book. The man who wrote them was near to death. He had had an amazing life. He had known the extremes of power, wealth and popularity. Then of his own will he had chosen poverty and persecution. He had been cast out, tortured, humiliated, broken by every device that could rack a man mentally or physically. Now the end was near.

How did he feel about it, now that life was almost over and he could tell his real feelings even to himself? Was he sorry—or glad? He was old and weak, but all the triumph of fiery youth ran in his voice as he cried—

"I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT . . . I HAVE FINISHED MY COURSE . . . I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH."

An old man who was to come down through the centuries as a great saint. But in that instant he was not thinking of Paul the Saint. He was thinking rather, of reckless, hot-blooded Saul of Tarsus—summing up his painful and perplexing personal life, wondering, as you and I wonder, if the gains had been worth the pains. And he knew they had! No matter what came, or didn't come, he died triumphant—for he played fair with himself.

"I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT . . . I HAVE FINISHED MY COURSE . . . I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH!"

Leaving God out of it (though he didn't) he had fought a good fight BY HIMSELF . . . he had finished the course FOR HIMSELF . . . he had kept faith WITH HIMSELF. These things he had done to satisfy his own self-respect. He'd have been ashamed if he hadn't done them. He was passionately proud because he had.

"I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT . . . I have kept the faith." If each night I can say that, the day, for me, has been worth while. If at the end I can know that, nothing else will matter.

SILVER LABEL BRAND GERMICIDE is so effective in the sickroom and at the same time imparts such a pleasantly clean aroma to the surroundings that I highly recommend it.

Love And Marriage

Free Lance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

Before I tell you my story, please [illegible] that I am not engaged to [illegible] Howeyer, I did have a cer[illegible] in mind. She's the right [illegible] about 40, knows how to keep [illegible] and my kids like her. I [illegible] understanding, though I often took her to the movies and [illegible] out in my car.

The other night I came down [illegible] elevator of the office building [illegible] where I work, with one of the telephone operators. I have just a business acquaintance with this girl. I invited her into the drugstore to have a glass of soda. The older lady saw us and if I'd been married to her she couldn't have raised more dust. She wrote me a scorching letter and told me she had no [illegible] claim on me.

Do you see any reason for her getting so mad over this?

PUZZLED.

To my way of thinking you're very fortunate to have experienced one of the older lady's tantrums before your friendship with her went any farther. Think of the war dances you'd have to witness if you married anyone as jealous as that. And please let me say here and now that any widower, bachelor or other unattached male is at liberty to drink soda water with [illegible] he pleases. If he's married, it's up to his wife.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

My girl friend and I both graduated from high school last year. She went to college in another city and I had to stay at home and go into business with my dad. We were good but her letters sound so indifferent at times, and when I ask if she still cares for me, she just replies "A little bit." And when we used to go together, she was always so anxious to be in my company.

DICK.

Your problem, Dick, has opened up a new avenue of interest, new friends and other activities. Try not to let her change of mood affect you too seriously.

[illegible] how about you? Are you doing anything to keep up with her in the things she is doing so interested in? Are you doing anything in the line of study? Keep up your reading and don't let your mind grow dull. Perhaps you can take up a course of study at home, or at night school. If you really want to make a real impression on her, try and keep yourself educated up to her standards.

'THE YOUNG MR. LINCOLN'

Abe Scoffs at Ridicule, Starts Career as Lawyer

SPRINGFIELD didn't know that Fate was riding into t[own] ... summer day and what's more, dressed in S[tovepipe] ... For this was July 4, 1837.

... passengers aboarded the Urban Spring[field] ... stage ... important folks were st[anding] ... saw ... only the three ... Lincoln, plus her and ...

... Lincoln leaned down at them from his makeshift seat and he ...

"LINKERN HISSELF"

And their laughter ... said Lincoln ... as he ... heard ... effect of a sn[ap] ... shirt and rawhide ... coffee with another group of sidewalk ... and teased up the back ... Lincoln ... said one of them. "If it ain't Abe Lincoln, hisself! Why, you head-strong boy!"

Lincoln leaned down at them from his makeshift seat and he ...

"Howdy, gentlemen," he said. "I see you've set out a few hold-ons doing nothing." He got down from his pony and shook hands all around. "Put 'er there, old high pocket!" he'd say. "How 'ye keep air your legs today?"

"Just long enough," said Abe, "to reach from my body to the ground, brother." Which brought forth another laugh from the crowd as he turned to greet Efe the little man he had once dunked in a rain barrel back in New Salem.

Then he went on into the building which housed the Sangamo Journal. A narrow flight of stairs led to the floor above where the signage outside Office No. 4 carried the names J. T. STUART and A. LINCOLN. An untidy sort of room. In one corner was a couch and in another a wood stove.

Abe, however, was not taking it easy. He propped up his feet because it was the easiest way to keep the two men who were in the office with him from flying at one another's throats. Then he looked at the paper he held in his hand.

QUARRELSOME CLIENTS

"New ... when they ... Scott ... breath ... case ... and when ... case ... had quarrel ... law. I understand ... Well ... Porter ... were ... retired ... Lincoln ... work ... a piece of plaintiff's law.

"That's right!" ... Hawthorne, "I got witnesses to prove it!"

"And for that," ... continued, "he demands $2[0] ... Well, Brother Woodridge, what ... got to say to that?"

"I'll see him rotting ... cried the other man, leaping ... his feet again, "before he gets a cent!"

"Hold on now, brother," ... said, taking up another paper from the window sill. "It says here that you, Brother Hawthorne, owe ...

MOSELEY AVOIDS DIES QUIZ

WASHINGTON May 25 (INS)—The Dies committee today had suspended hearings temporarily after George Deatherage self-admitted organizer of anti-Semitic campaigns told how he sought funds from rich Newport society people and money-raising advice from the German consulate in Washington in efforts on his drive against Jews.

Deatherage, ex-[illegible] from St. Albans, W. Va.

Chairman Dies (D.-) of Texas of the House committee investigating un-American activities, suspended the hearings after Major General Van Horn Moseley, U. S. A. retired, sent word he would be unable to respond to a subpoena this week because of business at Atlanta.

We are not going to be around here indefinitely waiting to hear from him," Dies said.

Deatherage is head of the White Camellias which he described as an offspring of the Ku Klux Klan. He testified he conferred with Baron Von Gienanth, German embassy press attache and [illegible] had given him [illegible] to carry on his campaign [illegible] funds.

Auto Gossip

By OTTO SCOOPS

The automotive industry mourns the passing of Mr. Frederick H. Hewer one of its most distinguished members.

IDLENESS RUINING SOX HURLERS

HIS AILING RIGHT ARM in nearly-boiling water in which a whirling gadget gives a gentle massage, Charley Ruffing, New York Yankees' star pitcher, obliges the photographer by pretending to taste a spoonful of the brew, which the gagging photographer labeled soup-bone broth. This method of treating lame pitching arms is the very last word.

Sox Hurlers Suffer From Lack of Work

By JOE CASHMAN

Our Red Sox aren't going to do so well in their first home stand against the western entries they drubbed for five wins in seven starts on their last trek through the wide open spaces.

In fact the outcome of the [illegible] game with Cleveland, which [illegible] belongs to a close [illegible] average of the boys from the [illegible] yards, will decide whether the [illegible] finish above or below the .500 mark as regularly [illegible]

The [illegible] took two out of three from the White Sox but [illegible] to be satisfied with splitting two more engagements with the Browns and Tigers and can do better than [illegible] their own [illegible] Indians after suffering a 5 to 2 [illegible] Saturday.

Since they're chasing out Eddie [illegible] and will be opposed by Bob [illegible] by Feller, who has never won on [illegible] Yankee Yard, the Croninmen have high hopes of evening this particular engagement and finishing with a slight edge over the Westerners.

CRONIN DESERVES THANKS

But even if they succeed the stand will go down as one of their most mediocre in years against the distant invaders and they'll continue to have their recent road showing, their best ever under Cronin to thank for being up where they are.

Pitching saved the Back Bay [illegible] three times Foxx and Vosmik alone lived up to expectations with the stick.

Without Foxx the attack has improved at home, but the hurling [illegible] gone haywire.

In only three of the eight games of the current stay has the starting Fenway flinger finished. In four of the frays the hostiles have collected 11 or more hits. In two of [illegible] defeats the Hose [illegible] 11 or more hoists.

Joe Cronin hasn't had much [illegible] playing spots for his [illegible]uckers.

Woody Rich opened the stand by turning in a brilliant victory a week ago last Tuesday. He was treated enough to be chased out in an effort to sweep the St. Louis engagement on Saturday last. Instead Denny Galehouse was started in that week-end melee and [illegible] his ears pinned back, while Woody rested for a week and was beaten by the Tigers two days back.

WILSON TAKES TWO LOSSES

Jack Wilson, probably the fur[illegible] advanced of any of the Sox slingers when the race opened, has been charged two of the four defeats administered by the Westerners here.

The Strong Boy pitched against the White Sox a week ago yesterday in his first start since April 24. He limited the Pale Hose to [illegible] hits for nine innings only to be beaten in the tenth.

Following another full week off he returned to action against the Indians yesterday. He didn't have [illegible] this occasion, being belted out of the picture in the third.

It wouldn't have availed him much had he been effective. The Sox were held to four singles and had no business getting a runner to second base against Willis [illegible] who also distinguished himself at bat by knocking [illegible] runs with a double off [illegible]

WHAT DOES CRONIN LIKE?

Fenway Park fans are familiar with this determined batting stance. And Joe's 1938 batting average (.307) proves that when he swings his Hickory, that old apple travels where the fielders ain't.

Shortstop Cronin clicks on double plays. As he unlimbers that cream pitcher over his bowlful of tasty Wheaties, he's a cinch to make the grandest double play in the flavor league: for taste and nourishment, you'll find nothing matches a "Breakfast of Champions!" Get some Wheaties today!

Double dynamite for enemy pitchers! Cronin and Foxx discuss strategy while the Bosox hot Joe and Jimmie boast high batting averages over their morning Wheatixel Wheaties, with plenty of milk or cream and fruit. That's their favorite "Breakfast of Champions!" And it should be yours, too.

WOODRUFF SEEKS 440, 880 CROWNS IN I C 4-A MEET

NEW YORK, May 25 (INS)—Scores of stars from 36 colleges comprising one of the greatest fields of all time will start shooting at records in the 63rd annual I. C. 4-A track and field championships here tomorrow and Saturday.

Experts concede the team championship to Southern California's powerful, evenly balanced squad but this does not mean that the westerners will win all, or even a majority, of the events.

Long John Woodruff, Pitt's great Olympic champion, will try to annex a double in the quarter and half-mile races. If he is to succeed, he may have to break a record in either or both events.

Many believe U. S. C.'s Erwin Miller may upset long John in the quarter mile.

Fordham's Wes Wallace, N. Y. U.'s Jimmy Herbert and California's Don Watt all are capable of forcing Woodruff to the limit.

Woodruff may have a stronger hold in the half-mile race, but here, too, he will meet fast competitors in Stan Holt of Rhode Island, Bob Hills of Michigan State, and Frank Slaty of Fordham, among others.

Mother's Illness Delays Zeimetz's Departure

It was a small Boston College party which left at noon today for the I. C. 4-A championships, which start tomorrow at Randall's Island, New York.

In the party were Coach Jack Ryder, Manager George Farrell and one athlete, Ed Swenson, New England intercollegiate shotput champion.

Frank Zeimetz, sprinter and broad jumper, and Joe Zabilski were scheduled to go along, but Zeimetz's mother is sick in her Brighton home, and Frankie planned to stay home until midnight.

He is expected to leave on the midnight, depending on his mother's condition.

Zabilski had an examination this afternoon and was forced to delay his departure until tomorrow morning. He will arrive at the site of the competition just in time to don his suit and enter the lists.

Gene Trinque At Topsfield

Gene Trinque, Rhode Island state auto race champion, comes to the Topsfield Fair Grounds for the Memorial Day classic.

Trinque is well known to local followers of the sport, having raced at Topsfield last year, as well as Newmarket and Keene, N. H., tracks.

Over the 20-mile route, Trinque will be dangerous, even though such noted big car pilots as Jerry May of Schenectady, N. Y., Lee Allen of Troy, N. Y., Dick Wetzel of Bound Brook, N. J., Ed Casterlin of Malden, Bob Gardner of Cohasset, George Rouley and Bud Hardt of Waterbury, Ct., Leroy Stone of Keene, N. H., and Louis Guilliano of Providence, R. I., will be among the starters.

Three five-mile races and a 10-mile consolation race complete the program.

Memorial Day Race At Weymouth Oval

The New England Racing Association will stage professional auto races at the Weymouth Fair Grounds, Memorial Day, May 30. New grandstands have been built and the track has been resurfaced, insuring fast racing.

Among the local speedsters trying for fame will be "Dizzy" Vance, West Roxbury; "Cannonball" Ridlon, Roxbury; "Bumpy" Bumpus, Brockton; Louis Guilliano, Providence; Dick Malley, Lynn, and others. Races start at 2:30 sharp.

Fights Last Night

By the Associated Press

BRIDGEPORT, Ct.—State Boxing Commissioner Frank Coskey stopped scheduled 10-round bout between Nathan Mann, 132, Hamden, Ct., and Al McCoy, 134, Boston (3). Coskey charged Mann's handler struck the timekeeper's bell 50 seconds before the end of second round to save Mann from knockout.

OAKLAND, Cal.—Ralph De John, 175, Syracuse, N. Y., stopped Bobby Yannes, 166, Los Angeles (5).

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.—Julio Izquierdo, 150, Mexico, knocked out Alex Cupiano, Puerto Rico (2).

ALICE MARBLE

Alice Marble Off for Britain

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—Alice Marble, California tennis ace, sailed today aboard the liner Champlain for the coming European net wars.

The former national women's champion will try for the Wimbledon title this summer.

REPORT SHORE TO BUY SPRINGFIELD INDIANS

Eddie Shore, "Old Ironsides" of the Boston Bruins defensive forces, today was filling a double role in hockey—as player and owner.

According to reliable reports in hockey circles, Shore has purchased the Springfield Indians of the International American League.

It is expected that Eddie will eventually retire from his playing role to concentrate on managing the Indians.

The Springfield club ran into financial difficulties last season and the league took it over at the midway mark.

Fred Hitchman, Shore's old defense mate on the Bruins, managed the Indians for a time last winter.

A NEW METHOD OF ELIMINATING AIR IN BOTTLES AND CANS PRESERVES DAWSON'S NATURAL BREWERY FLAVOR

THE air that remains in bottles and cans before they are sealed tends to impair the taste of ale and beer. Dawson's has overcome this by a new method which removes the air and preserves the rich, full flavor and zestful tang. Dawson's now comes to you air free, sparkling with natural purity and delicious taste.

Baseball Gate Off; 'Cincy' Fans Hungry

By the Associated Press

Baseball attendance is off 25 per cent and you can check that with owners in cities where the newspapers have turned off the heat . . . If and when California appoints a boxing czar, George Blake, the country's No. 1 referee, will be first choice.

That American Association flag race looks like a four-club dog fight from away back yonder . . . Newspaper men from over there say if Louis beats Galento, New Jersey will have to double its relief rolls.

Harry Martin, captain of the Petersburg (Va.) High School team, is running bases like Pepper Martin in his prime . . . In 15 games he has swiped 33 bags, including three steals of home in four tries.

Mail Box: ED BARROW: Scout Gene McCann has just mailed you a four-star rave about Porter Vaughan, the U. of Richmond pitcher . . . U. S. L. T. A.: Did you know that last summer 25 Miami tennisers played in 60 tournaments in 25 states and won 65 championships? . . . BILL McKECHNIE: Main beef of the Cincy wolves seems to be that while you are much nearer the top than you were a year ago, you're also a lot closer to the cellar.

Pepper Martin

PLAYERS, INC.: Members of the Miuwaukee ball club fine themselves for misdemeanors on the field . . . Typical fines: Ten cents for taking more than three swings in batting practice; 25 cents for not running out bunts; two bits for reporting late for practice, etc.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT: Max Baer swears he hasn't had a cigarette in three months and has plumb forgot how to bend an elbow . . . Seattle reports a 25-grand advance sale for next month's Al Hostak-Solly Krieger middleweight bout, which is five grand more than Mike Jacobs took in for Krieger vs. Billy Conn . . . Frankie Parker, once a first ten netter, is telling 'em on the Coast he's going to remake himself into a national champ.

QUICKIES: Dick Donald, who is hollering his head off about a Negro heavy named Yancey Henry, is the same guy who two months ago was screaming Jack Roper would kayo Joe Louis . . . Mickey Cochrane's new job as manufacture's agent sometimes nets him as much as $15,000 commission for one deal . . . Freddie Wolcott, Rice's cinder track ace, is turning down all invites to tour Europe this summer because he wants to have his tonsils out . . . The Pacific coast conference will get a no spring football resolution at next month's meeting—and reject it.

Armstrong Spots Briton 10 3-4 Pounds

LONDON, May 25 (INS)—Henry Armstrong, little California Negro, will spot Ernie Roderick, British Empire welt weight champion, 10¾ pounds tonight when they meet for the world welterweight title held by the former.

Armstrong weighed in at 135 pounds before the British boxing board today, and Roderick scaled 145¾.

Experts generally predicted that Armstrong would retain his title. A capacity crowd of 14,000 was expected.

Rural Rube Leads Pack At Wonderland Race Oval

The first official schooling races for the 1939 greyhound racing season which starts at Wonderland Park June 1st, were run off at the Revere Beach oval, with more than 200 greyhounds going through their paces for the first time.

Among the winners of the schooling races were Rural Rube, R. B. Carroll's champion, a six-length winner, and Jingle Jangle, the top dog at St. Petersburg.

Boston Harbor, a Wonderland favorite of last season, and Bad Sally, a match race greyhound of two years ago, won their trials with ease.

Chicago Opens 137-Day Turf Season

CHICAGO, May 25 (AP)—Chicago's turf season opened today at Col. Matt Winn's Lincoln Fields plant, starting a 137-day program which will extend to October on five tracks.

Aurora, customary opening race site in the Chicago area, passed up the 1939 season after a conflict in dates, leaving Lincoln Fields the inaugural honors for the first time since it began operations in 1926.

After the 27-day meeting at Circle, 29 miles south of Chicago, the scene will shift to Arlington, where a $400,000 purse distribution will make it the richest of the mid-west meetings.

Washington Park, Hawthorne and Sportsman's Park follow in that order.

A field of 12 was down for the Lincoln Fields opening day feature, the $2500 Crete Handicap at six furlongs. William Morgan's The Fighter was allotted the top weight of 120 pounds.

Garrett Watts' Silverette drew 118, and John March's King's Blue 117. Light Spur was an entry with King's Blue.

Kelly's Planning On Twin Bill

Twilight Bill Kelly will open his baseball season Sunday afternoon at Christopher J. Lee playground, South Boston, with a soft ball double header and a six-inning game of regulation baseball.

Bill's nine isn't settled yet, and any player who wants to try out for the club can do so by reporting to Kelly at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

3 Features On Suffolk Race Card

Three featured races on a single day's card. That's the starting bill of fare offered Suffolk Downs race fans for today. Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan has provided the most delectable dish of horse racing offered in many a long day at Suffolk, and it is a card filled with possibilities for close and thrilling finishes.

Topping the list of triple features is the Hotel Kenmore Purse, a six furlong race for four-year-olds and up. The Chelsea—which will be witnessed by Mayor Edward J. Voke of Chelsea and several of his official family—is a one-mile race for three-year-olds, while The Worcester, originally scheduled for Wednesday, will be run over the one mile and 70-yard route for four-year-olds and upwards.

In the Hotel Kenmore Purse, Managing Director Lee Witney of the Kenmore will greet the winning jockey at the winner's circle. Clingendael, the A. C. C. Stable horse, which won handily last Saturday in the Framingham Handicap, is given 111 pounds top weight in this race, and the Bedwell-trained horse is one of those always favored to be in the running all the way.

U-BOAT IN LIGHT

Chief Nadi, owned by W. F. Mannagh and trained by D. W. Carroll, will carry 108 pounds, while Lakeview, heavily favored in last Saturday's betting, carries 107 pounds. Mrs. Emil Denemark sends two good horses postward in the Hotel Kenmore race, these being Court Dance, 104 pounds, and Blind Eagle, 105 pounds.

Sheldon H. Fairbanks, Boston sportsman, whose horses are always highly regarded, has entered U-Boat and the racing secretary has sent him to the post with the light package of 103 pounds.

Entered in the Chelsea are: Good Odds and Grand Pageant, each at 101 pounds. Ace Call in at 109 and Superstition with 112 pounds.

Our Laddie will carry top weight of 114 in this race. Short Cake, surprise winner of recent date, carries 110, while Old Joe at 111, Topee with 108 and Float Away with 106 complete this classy field.

HER MAN IS DEAD

Paroxysm of grief grips Mrs. John A. Chestnutt as friend breaks the news that her husband is one of the 26 men almost certainly dead aboard the submarine Squalus, held 240 feet beneath the ocean's surface. She had waited hours for word of him.

HER MAN IS IN HER ARMS

Smack!—Justin T. Bland, Squalus survivor, rushes into arms of wife as he reaches haven of Portsmouth dock. He was one of first brought from ocean depths by diving bell.

HER MAN IS SAVED

Hysteria of joy overcomes Mrs. Evelyn M. Powell as she hears that her husband is safe on land after terrifying sub-sea ordeal. She had prayed and hoped for hours he had been spared death. Her prayers were answered.
